Sixteen Years' Experience in handling Spectacles, and a study of the business in a and a study of the business in a general way has enabled me to fit those whose sight was failing because of advancing age (Presbyopia) and those who were nearsighted (Myopic), but where astigmatism or any peculiarity of the sight existed I was obliged to refer the customer to a city oculist. Not satisfied to do a business that I could not do properly. I determined to study Refraction. I secured the best works on that subject, "Hartridge on Refraction." by Gustavus Hartridge, F. R. C. In the first place, I counsel clerks to 1st $1 50 2d 50 remember that for the most part their 1st $1 50 2d 75 eight years to get into one of the learned professions. It takes about eight years to get to be a merchant. Some of you will be clerks all your lives, but the vast majority of you are only in a transient position. After awhile, some December day, the head men of the firm will call you into the back office, and they will say to you: "Now, you have done well by us, we are going to do well by you. We invite you to have an interest in our concern." You will bow to that edict very gracefully. Getting into a street car to go home, an old comrade will meet you and say, What makes you look so happy tonight?" "Oh," you will say, "nothing, nothing." But in a few days you. name will blossom on the sign. Either in the store or bank where you are now, or in some other store or bank, you will take a higher position than that which you now occupy. So I feel I am now addressing people who will yet have their hand on the helm of the world's commerce and you will turn it this way er that. Now clerks, but to be bankers, importers, insurance company directors, shippers, contractors, superintendents of railroads-your voice mighty "on 'Change''-standing foremost in the great financial and religious enterprises of the day. For, though we who are in the professions may, on the platform, plend for the philanthropies, after all, the merchants must come forward with their millions to sustain the movement. Be therefore patient and diligent in this transient position. You are now

You see an affluent father some day come down a prominent street with his son who has just graduated from the university and stablishing him in business, putting $50,000 of capital in the store. Well, you are envious. You say: "Oh, if I If I only had a father to put $50,000 in a business for me, then I would have some chance in the world." Be not envious. You have advantages over that young man which he has not over you. As well might I come down to the docks when a vessel is about to sail for Valparaiso and say, "Let me pilot this ship out to sea." Why, I would sink crew and cargo before I got out of the harbor simply because I know nothing about pilotage. Wealthy sea captains put their sons before the mast for the reason that they know it is the only place where they can learn to be successful suilors. One great trial for clerks is the inconsideration of customers. There are peo ple who are entirely polite everywhere else, but gruff and dictatorial and contemptible when they come into a store to buy anything. There are thousands of men and women who go from store to store to price things, without any idea of purchase. They are not satisfied until every roll of goods is brought down and they have pointed out all the real or imaginary defects. They try on all kinds of kid gloves and stretch them out of shape, and they put on all styles of cloak and walk to the mirror to see how they look, and then they sail out of the store, saying, "I will not take it today," which means, "I don't want it at all," leaving the clerk amid a wreck of ribbons and laces and cloths to smooth out a thousand dollars worth of goods-not a cent of which did that man or woman buy or expect to buy. Now, I call that a dishonesty on the part of the customer. If a boy runs into a store and takes a roll of cloth off the counter and sneaks out into the street, you all join in the cry pell mell, "Stop thief!" When I see you go into a store, not expecting to buy anything, but to price things, stealing the of his employer, I say, too, "Stop thief!" On that day when the cities of this world are smoking in the last conflagration the trial will go on, and down in an avalanche of destruction will go those who wronged man or woman, insulted God and defled the judgment. Oh, that will be a great day for you, honest Christian clerk. No getting up early, no retiring late, no walking around with weary limbs, but a mansion in which to live and a realm of light and love and joy over which to hold everlasting dominion. Hoist him up from glory to glory and from song to song and from throne to throne, for while others go down into the sea with their gold like a millstone hanging to their neck, this one shall come up the heights of amethyst and alabaster, holding in his right hand the pearl of great price in a sparkling, glittering, flaming casket. Box Closets.

The uses of the common wooden store box are legion. All sorts of cupboards and chairs have been made from it. Its most convenient use for summer is as a eatch all for things that are handy to have about, like the watering pot, the trowel or the lawn shears. It can be set up against the wall and painted the color of the hease, or if kept on the veranda a pretty color of burlap may be used to cover it. For veranda use it may be covered with one of the striped couch rogs and used as a sort of table with the children's playthings inside it. For this purpose it should be set up on end, with the opening against the house.
